CAITLYN JENNER

1. Terminate Newsom's State of Emergency (government-imposed lockdowns, masks, tests, injections): ?

Another interesting moment came when Jenner did a one-on-one with Fox 11's Elex Michaelson, who asked her, "should kids in schools be wearing masks?" "That's really up to the science of it," Jenner said.

"That's what the CDC says they should," Michaelson replied. "I think we should go with that, what the CDC says," Jenner said. "But to be honest with you, I don't know if that is the answer." Other Republican candidates in the race have opposed the state's mask mandate for all schools.

"Throughout his time as governor, Gavin Newsom has always believed he is above the law," Caitlyn Jenner said in the press release.

"Whether it was when he shut us down while he lived it up at the French Laundry or when he prevented our children from in-person classroom learning while he sent his own children to in-person classrooms at a private school, this is another example of the hypocrisy of Gavin Newsom."

"This recall election is a binary choice between more of the same insider politics that closed our businesses, stolen a year of in-person education from our children, and driven Californians to other more friendly states versus someone who will take on the status quo to actually turn this California nightmare back into the California Dream."

2. Order schools to stop masking children or let parents decide: ?

Jenner has not participated in any debates with other candidates, and has no recorded statement regarding ordering a solution on this issue.

3. Veto ALL the bad bills passed by the Democrat-controlled California State Legislature: NO

“We label everybody. I don’t like labels. I’m me, OK?” Jenner added. “Just because I have conservative economic philosophy -- that’s the only thing that the Republicans are kind of on that I’m on. ... I don’t know. Maybe you call me a libertarian. Maybe you call me in the middle. I really don’t know because when it comes to social issues, I’m much more progressive, much more liberal. So I’m kind of a middle of the road.”

4. Including vetoing abortion expansion bills: NO

”But they split down the middle on abortion, with former Congressman Ose and Rancho Santa Fe businessman Cox, both 65, declaring themselves pro-life and Faulconer and Jenner pronouncing themselves pro-choice.”

In the July 1980 edition of Playboy, Jenner had admitted: ‘My first reaction was that I didn’t want it’. Chrystie also confirmed at the time that she had considered an abortion, but only because her husband wanted one. ‘When I found out I was pregnant Bruce raised the issue of an abortion, and I went along with him just as I always did,’ she told a January 1981 edition of People Magazine. ‘I had all the tests and had even paid for the operation. ‘But one night I was out to dinner and my friend asked me why I wanted an abortion. I told him, “I don’t want the abortion.” He said, “Why are you having it?” And I said, “Because Bruce wants it.”’

5. Including vetoing LGBTQIA+ agenda bills: NO

Jenner supported Trump in 2016 but later criticized his administration's reversal of a directive on transgender people's access to public school bathrooms. She also split with Trump after he said transgender people would not be allowed to serve in the U.S. military.

"I'm going to work hard to change the Republican Party to be more inclusive. They have been losing for too long in California because they don't recruit enough good, diverse candidates – it's time for that to change. I'm the poster child for change. I support personal freedoms and small, transparent, accountable government. I also support being more inclusive to all lifestyles..."

When asked about that position during the CNN interview with Bash, Jenner said, "The most important thing for me is we protect women's sports. We can work the other issues out -- for trans women to compete in sports, who are truly trans, who grew up trans and have been trans all their life." "I'm about protecting women's sports," she told Bash. "My statement was, I don't want biological boys playing in girls' sports."

"That is why my position has been so clear and consistent: biological boys should not be allowed to participate in girls sports. It is a question of fairness. To be clear, I do believe that athletes that have fully transitioned should be able to participate in sports provided they meet all other eligibility criteria as defined by their state, local, league, conference or school rules."

7. Oppose higher taxes, fees, and assessments, and work to lower them: YES?

"When I'm Governor, I'll veto any tax increase. Period. And I'll make it my mission to make your state government work harder for you. We'll cut duplicate programs, we'll streamline spending and I'll hold the legislature accountable when they try to take more of your money for pet projects or special interest favors."

8. Deploy California's National Guard troops to guard California-Mexico border: YES?

"At border now and people illegally entering! As governor I will finish the wall with state funds! @GavinNewsom has failed us allowing illegal immigration to run rampant in our state."

"Right now we have an epidemic of crime in this state. It's legal right now to steal in San Francisco, you see it all the time," Jenner said. "This is about leadership. Governor Newsom is not a leader." "When it comes to the police force, when it comes to crime, you have powers as governor. You obviously have veto power and the power to put in a state of emergency. He also has the power to bring in the National Guard if it's that important. He's not doing any of that," she continued.

"I am all for the wall, I would secure the wall," Jenner said. "We can't have a state, we can't have a country without a secure wall. You have two questions here. One is stopping people from coming in illegally into the state. And then the second question is, what do we do with the people that are here? We are a compassionate county, ok? We are a compassionate state. Some help, I mean, some people we're going to send back ok, no question about that. But I have met some of the greatest immigrants [in] our country."

9. Declare war against harmful "recreational" drugs: ?

Our California leadership is so broken. In Gavin Newsom's California it is easier to get Fentanyl than a plastic straw. #BrokenWokeness

10. Restore death penalty for convicted murderers: YES

Jenner praised her children and their entrepreneurial talents but said her family would not play a role in her gubernatorial campaign. She noted that she differs from her stepdaughter Kim Kardashian on halting the death penalty. "I am in favor of the death penalty," she said.
