

THE EFFECT OF “HARVEY MILK DAY” IN SCHOOLS

From the Text of SB 572

“On Harvey Milk Day, exercises remembering the life of Harvey Milk, recognizing his accomplishments, and familiarizing pupils with the contributions he made to this state” shall be performed; specifically, “all public schools and educational institutions are encouraged to observe...and...conduct suitable commemorative exercises.”

What This Means for Schoolchildren as Young as Kindergarten

Under SB 572, what could children in government schools be taught? The sky’s the limit. It could be anything Milk believed or is said to have believed:

1. Homosexual “sex” with minors is acceptable

(At age 33, Milk had a sexual “relationship” with a 16-year-old named Jack McKinley)

2. Homosexual “sex” with multiple “lovers” is OK

(Milk said, “As homosexuals, we can’t depend on the heterosexual model... We should be developing our own life-style. There’s no reason why you can’t love more than one person at a time.”)

3. Homosexuality, “same-sex marriages,” bisexuality, and sex changes are admirable.

4. Organized religion is dangerous

(Milk said, "More people have been slaughtered in the name of religion than for any other single reason. That, my friends, that is true perversion.")

5. Anyone struggling with homosexual feelings must declare themselves gay or lesbian for life

(Milk said, “Every gay person must come out...once you do, you will feel so much better.”)
